Dear St. Paul's Family:

For quite some time now I have been reflecting upon the words of Luke 18:16: "Let the little children come to me, and do not stop them; for it is to such as these that the kingdom of God belongs."

The part that especially resonates with me is, "Let the little children come to me, and do not stop them." When children come to church, they come to church for several reasons. Some children come when their parents come, whether the child wants to or not. Perhaps we can remember those days ourselves.

Sometimes we see children on special Youth Sundays. It is so joyful to see so many gathered!

Some children want to come – really! They feel comfortable enough to be themselves during worship and bubble over with enthusiasm that is appropriate to their age.

However, I have been observing people reacting to the children in ways that are not welcoming. Some people have been scolding them, making negative comments that they do not believe others hear, rolling their eyes, and other behaviors that are unwelcoming to our children. We cannot do that. If children feel unwelcome, they will stay home.

One of my favorite children at a prior church was a very spunky girl who brought favorite dolls and animals with her to church. Sometimes her little companions went flying through the air, while at other times they looked over the back of the pew at those behind her. Some of her little friends had loud conversations in different voices during worship – especially the quiet parts. She was not a distraction; she was a child.

As she matured, she outgrew a lot of her little girl spunkiness and joined the children's choir where she sang very loudly in the off-key way children do as they learn about music. When she started playing a musical instrument, she played short tunes that a beginner plays. Over time, her voice became beautiful and on pitch - I listened for it during hymns. Over time, her diligent practicing revealed a talented, dedicated musician.

We were all children once and while we may have been raised differently, we were children.

“Let the little children come to me, and do not stop them.”

Lenten blessings,
Pastor Kim

Thank you to my wonderful St. Paul's Church Family for all the cards, good wishes and kind thoughts during my recent illness. Prayers were answered with a speedy recovery.

While I miss every one of you, Georgia & my small family have been good to me!

Blessings to all. God is indeed good to us!

Nancy Heffner

Again, thank you.
Nancy

Thank you to everyone who took their time and talents to write the devotions for Lent. I am truly thankful for the caring people we have in our church family.

My Favorite Hymn

When I asked Carol Reinhard what her favorite hymn was, she said she has a lot of favorites. Carol likes, “Here I Am, Lord,” and that is also her grandson’s favorite. But “Fairest Lord Jesus” holds a special place in her heart because it was one of the first hymns she learned as a child and sang as a solo. Carol still has the tattered original copy she used.

“Fairest Lord Jesus” first appeared in Germany in a Jesuit hymn book in 1677. The origin of the words and who translated it into English remain a mystery. This hymn emphasizes the beauty and wonders of Christ, and it alludes to his dual nature, that he was both human and divine, God made flesh: “O Thou of God and man the Son... Son of God and Son of Man...”

Recognize a Phishing Email

What is a phishing email?

Are you sure that email from UPS is actually from UPS? (Or Costco, BestBuy, VISA, Wells Fargo, or the myriad of unsolicited emails you receive every day?) The Church, Companies and individuals are often targeted by cybercriminals via emails designed to look like they came from a legitimate bank, government agency, or organization. In these emails, the sender asks recipients to click on a link that takes them to a page where they will confirm personal data, account information, etc.

What is phishing?

This technique is called phishing, and it's a way hackers con you into providing your personal information or account data. Once your info is obtained, hackers create new user credentials or install malware (such as backdoors) into your system to steal sensitive data.

Phishing emails today rarely begin with, "Salutations from the son of the deposed Prince of Nigeria..." and it's becoming increasingly difficult to distinguish a fake email from a verified one. But most have subtle hints of their scammy nature. Here are seven email phishing examples to help you recognize a malicious email and maintain email security.

Here are several telltale signs of a phishing scam:

- The links or URLs provided in emails are not pointing to the correct location or are pointing to a third-party site not affiliated with the sender of the email. You can see the address the link is pointing to by hovering over it with your cursor. For example, in the image below the URL provided doesn't match the URL that you'll be taken to. You can determine this by hovering over the link with your cursor.

- There's a request for personal information such as social security numbers or bank or financial information. Official communications won't request personal information from you in the form of an email.
- ◇ If in doubt, ALWAYS contact the business by known channels to verify if any suspicious emails are in fact legitimate. NEVER use the email address or phone number provided in the email.
- Items in the email address will be changed so that it is similar enough to a legitimate email address, but has added numbers or changed letters.

Example: StPaulsChurchOffice.com when the actual email address for the church would be StPaulsChurchOffice.com. The fake email address has a "l" instead of a "I".

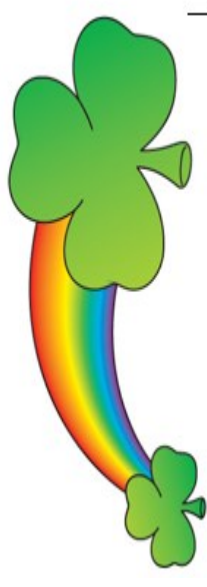

- If you don't do business or haven't requested information from a particular company, DON'T click on any links or take any surveys.
- The message or the attachment asks you to enable macros, adjust security settings, or install applications. Legitimate emails WILL NEVER ask you to do this.
- The message contains errors. Legitimate corporate messages are less likely to have typographic or grammatical errors or contain wrong information.
- The sender address doesn't match the signature on the message itself. For example, an email is purported to be from Mary of Contoso Corp, but the sender address is john@example.com.
- The greeting on the message itself doesn't personally address you. Avoid communications without personalization. "Dear valued customer" is a good tip to stay away.
- The website looks familiar but there are inconsistencies or things that aren't quite right. Warning signs include outdated logos, typos, or ask users to give additional information that is not asked by legitimate sign-in websites.
- NEVER FORWARD AN EMAIL FROM UNSOLICITED SOURCES TO OTHER PEOPLE. If there are viruses attached to the email you will be spreading the virus to other people. If you want to forward the email, print email out as an adobe file and send the adobe copy as an attachment to the person you wish to forward email to. If you are not sure how to print the email in adobe file, please contact someone from the Church Technology Committee.

World Day of Prayer

Friday, March 4 at 11:00 AM

Spiritual Council and the Worship Committee will be hosting a World Day of Prayer Brunch on Friday, March 4^{at} 11:00 AM. This year's theme is Great Britain.

Fellowship Hall will be festooned in a British flair and brunch will have a British character. There will be a brief worship service and an opportunity to learn more about Great Britain.

Please plan to attend.

Young At Heart Seniors

The Young at Heart Senior Club debuted on Wednesday, February 16th.

This month featured a prayer followed by a reading of "How Do I Love Thee" by Elizabeth Barrett Browning. The group made Birdseed Birdfeeders and decorated terra cotta candy dishes. After crafting, the group participated in a spirited game of The Price is Right. One contestant was able to name the price of her item to the penny! All in attendance were very impressed.

The group played People BINGO to get to know each other better as they vied for prizes, then enjoyed chatting over coffee and tea, and sang "Jesus Loves Me." Since we had a little time remaining, they made Valentine people to take home with them or to be shared with our Homebound Friends during visitations and Home Communion.

Young At Heart Seniors plans to meet the 3rd Wednesday of each month and members will take turns planning the following month's events. Our next gathering will be Wednesday, March 16th at 10:00

Kutztown Folk Music Society Concert

by Keith Brintzenhoff

Frigid temperatures and the omicron variant of Covid-19 greatly affected attendance at January's concert. Russ Rentler performed to a very small, but appreciative audience. He kindly stepped in at the last moment when Barby Holder was unable to attend due to medical issues.

Russ is a retired doctor, who was always interested in music. He taught himself to play a variety of instruments. Despite a lack of formal training, he has excelled as a musician. As an example, he achieved third place in the Senior Division at last year's Berk's Fiddle Fest.

Russ plays about 10 different instruments, mostly string instruments. When performing he spoke about the instruments, and the songs he performs, especially about the song's history. He also has an excellent sense of humor, which endears him to his audience.

Russ has built a few instruments and made some remarkable adaptations to others. For example, he invented a way to hold a harmonica onto his fiddle, so he could play both at the same time. It was totally amazing to see!

We look forward to having Russ back when conditions are much better. You will not want to miss him next time he performs.

Kutztown Folk Music Society Concert – February

By Pastor Kim

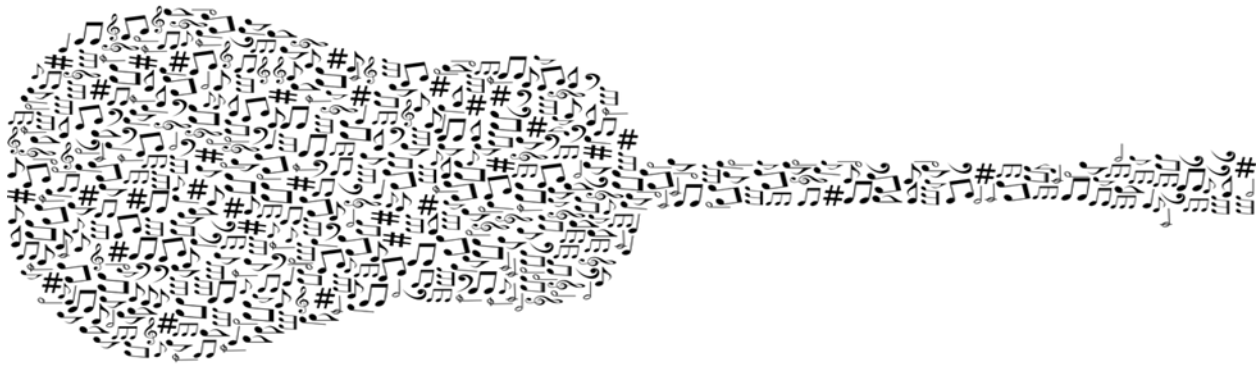

On Friday, February 11 a small, but appreciative crowd gathered in our sanctuary to hear Jay Smar. He is a native of Schuylkill County and a world expert on Coal Mining songs. As a fellow Skook and Coal Cracker, I was nearly brought to tears when he sang the song "Breaker Boys." They were the small boys who picked slate and other rocks out of the coal from dark each morning until the work was finished for the day (usually after dark) for 6 cents per day.

Jay also referenced the Molly Maguires and shared the history and music of the Mollies with us. If you have not seen the movie of the same name starring Sean Connery, I would recommend it.

The photo below shows Jay with his fiddle explaining "flat-footed" dance, which he is coordinated enough to do while playing the fiddle and singing! The flat-footed dance acts as a percussive voice to the piece.

Jay's favorite folk musician was the legendary, John Hartford and he admits that his fiddle and banjo style is an homage to John. Jay also performs on guitar and plays beautifully. He has been described as serving "his audience an acoustic buffet of traditional American and original folk ol' time mountain music, bluegrass, and gospel tunes." I enjoyed his buffet very much and look forward to seeing him next time he performs.
